

A departing view of Don as he is leaving the runway for the next stop—Barber Airport. I usually don't like to publish photos of airplanes as little dots in the sky, but I like how the "Learn To Fly Here" and couldn't resist stating that Salem also has flight instruction available.

Member News & Reports

Fly-Out weather has been great. Fly-Out Food has been too.

The weather around Northeast Ohio has been pretty good this past month and the NCLF Airwing has been out and about.

August 21 saw the crew fly out to Salem Airpark to enjoy some of their excellent food and service. Eight flew in and four of us drove in to share each others company.

If you have never been to Salem Airpark to eat, you are really missing out on an experience. The place is something to see with all of the aviation decorations in the restaurant. One side of the building has parking for land vehicles and the other side has parking for air vehicles. Also attached to the restaurant is a pilot center where you can check weather for your return flight. This is a must see/eat stop you need to put on your "Places to Go" list.

After breakfast, the Airwing was planning a daylight raid on Barber Airport to recon the activities of the Balsa Bee's. They are a group of radio controlled model airplane enthusiasts who fly in the back left corner of the airport. You will have to come to the meeting to hear that part of the story.
