Member News & Reports

News at Salem

The places to be able to fly to for breakfast are becoming endangered. Salem's restaurant has closed for business. This one wasn't our fault, or maybe because we weren't visiting them enough, it was. All I know is they will be missed. They had great food and a beautiful restaurant. I hope they can reopen in the future.

Mike B. reports that Ben now has Airoshell Rotax Oil in stock at Salem.

New Castle Visit

Mike B. and Paul H. were in attendance at the New Castle Fly-In in PA. They report that it had a good turn out. He also states that they really appreciated lunch as the clouds didn't lift until noon.

New Home for my Gyro

Well, I have finally made the move to getting my gyro to an airport. I moved into the hanger at the picnic last month and have been out there almost every weekend since. The weather hasn't been cooperating much as the field has been wet most of the time.

Tweaking continues as I work out my steering issues. Foot pegs are my latest direction and will give me direct control on the ground.

I also just purchased a set of mains with breaks. I am in the process of tracking down axels to mount to my machine. That should give me the ability to pre-rotate without rolling down the runway.

It sure is nice not having to spend time breaking down, traveling, setting up, breaking down, traveling and setting up to be able to enjoy my gyro. Just wheel it out and start to play.
